The computation of FSI shall be done for both rehab and free-sale components in the normal manner, that is giving the benefit of what is set down in Regulation No. 31(1). While the areas referred in sub regulations No 6.6 and 8.2 of this Regulation shall not be included for computation of FSI the said areas shall be included for computation of the rehab component of 10 sq. m in sub-Regulations 3.3 to 3.5 herein above. In all such cases where FSI sanctioned cannot be utilised in situ the difference between sanctioned FSI and that can be constructed in-situ, will be made available in the form of TDR in accordance with the provisions of Regulation No. 32. Provided that if the existing tenement density is more than 650 hectares, the CEO(SRA) after ascertaining and due verification of proposal may allow FSI consumption in-situ to be exceeded up to 4. Due to local planning constraints and viability of the Slum Rehabilitation Project the density norms of 650 per net hectare may be reduced up to 25% by Chief Executive Office. Thereupon the difference between sanctioned FSI that can be utilized in-situ, will be made available in the form TDR in accordance with the provisions of Regulation no 32. The computation of FSI shall be done for both rehab and free-sale components in the normal manner, that is giving the benefit of what is set down in Regulation No. 31(1). While the areas referred in sub regulations No 6.8 6.6 and 8.2 of this Regulation shall not be included for computation of FSI the said areas shall be included for computation of the rehab component of 10 sq. m in sub-Regulations 3.3 to 3.5 herein above. In all such cases where FSI sanctioned cannot be utilised in situ even after relaxation of 650 per net hectare norms by Chief Executive Officer the difference between sanctioned FSI and that can be constructed in-situ, will be made available in the form of TDR in accordance with the provisions of Regulation No. 32. Provided that if the existing tenement density is more than 650 hectares, the CEO (SRA) after ascertaining and due verification of proposal may allow FSI consumption in-situ to be exceeded up to 4. The difference between sanctioned FSI (rehabilitation FSI plus incentive FSI) and that can be constructed in-situ, will be made available in the form of TDR in accordance with the provisions of Regulation No. 32. Provided that the aforesaid FSI shall be exclusive of the Fungible FSI compensatory area admissible under the provision of DCR 31(3). (EP-92) |                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

However, clubbing shall be allowed only if it leads to an independent plot/Building/Wing as the case may be with SRA component being handed over to SRA. Whenever such clubbing of PTC schemes on plots/lands having different ASR is approved &amp; PTCs are shifted on land having lesser ASR, the Developer shall have to pay premium equal to 51% of unearned income on extra sale component being available than which would have been otherwise available on such plot as standalone scheme. Such unearned income shall be equal to difference of rate of open land in sq. mas per as per ASR (on the date of clubbing of the scheme) of BUA of land where such extra sale component to be allowed &amp; from the land from which such sale component is shifted. Such premium shall be paid to SRA in two stages viz 50% at the time of IOA of such extra sale component to be allowed &amp; balance at the time of issuing CC for the same. However, such clubbing shall not be permissible for development under the provision of SRA scheme under clause 3.11 Note.— This provision shall not apply to the plots wherein permissible Zonal F.S.I. is less than 1.00. The entire rehabilitation components including Base FSI may be categorized as rental housing and permanent transit component as applicable and the corresponding sale components from the additional FSI amongst two or more schemes under this regulation can be permitted to be interchanged. A developer / developers making an application under this regulation may club more than one plot belonging to single or multiple owners and offer permanent transit component on a single plot while shifting sale component as well as base FSI of the plot to other plots provided all right holders of these plots agree and make a joint application. However, clubbing shall be allowed only if it leads to an independent plot / building / wing as the case may be with permanent transit component being handed over to Planning Authority. The developer shall have to pay premium equal to 40% of unearned income calculated with the rates of construction as well as sale given in ASR of the year of payment. The unearned income shall be computed by calculating valuation of sale component awarded in lieu of component for Planning Authority after deducting cost of construction of sale as well as Planning Authority's component and |                                                                                 |                                                                                                   |                                                                                                    |
